

March 12, 2023 Adoration Chapel

Hello, my Jesus ever present in the Most Holy Eucharist. I praise, adore and give glory to You, my Lord, God and King! Oh, Lord thank You for the opportunity to be here with You in this peaceful, quiet place away from the world, the noise and stress. Thank You for Mass and Holy Communion, Lord. Jesus, it was a very good meeting yesterday. Thank You for the people You called to come together yesterday. It was a grace filled evening. Help us to continue to form and learn from one another. May others be open to and accepting of the invitation to join in the coming months. Work Your Will in and through us, dearest Savior. Lord, I don't know where You will take this or how You will use us, but only that You will. Your will be done, Lord Jesus.

Lord, forgive me of my sins and bring me ever closer to Your Sacred Heart. Immerse me in Your Will, Oh Lord. May we be united in all that we do together, Lord. Take my will Jesus and give me Your Will in return. Take my heart and all of me, Jesus and live in and through me. I fall and I disappoint You Jesus when I live for myself or try to do something on my own. Lord, I don't even realize it at the time, but only afterwards when I reflect on my sins or shortcomings. This is why I must allow You to live in and through me, Lord. There is no way for me to become holy without Your graces. It is impossible without Your benevolent mercy. Lord, have mercy on me. May every thought and every action be done within Your holy and perfect Will. I love You, Lord. Keep me close to You, Lord and never allow me to be separated from You. Jesus, I trust in You. Jesus, I trust in You. Jesus, I trust in You. Lord, have You anything to say to me?

"Yes, My child. I Will this group of My children to come together. The fellowship, faith and love you shared and will share going forward is what I want for all My children. The evil one wants to separate My children; To divide and conquer so to speak. My plan for mankind is not one of division but of unity and peace. My little lamb, My daughter (name withheld) said it well when she reflected on the different personalities of My children. It is good to recognize this now, to love and be patient with one another. You must all learn this lesson now, for when the time comes to enter the refuges being prepared for My remnant, there will be different temperaments. My children come from a variety of places, backgrounds and experiences. Many if not most of My children have been wounded in some way through either their own sins or the consequences from the sins of others. (and often by both) When I speak of wounds, I mean emotional wounds. Many have been wounded by a relative and in some cases by a parent or parents when as a child they were abused or felt unloved. Some have known rejection or lived in families where there was alcohol or drug abuse. Some have been rejected even because of their desire to be holy. There are many reasons as there are types of wounds that even when seemingly well integrated people think they have healed and put these hurts behind them, act out of a self-protection coping mechanism rather than out of a place of love. My children when one responds defensively, or acts superior to others, it is usually due to woundedness. These wounds need to be healed from the inside out and require exposure to My light, My love, My grace and mercy. When someone mistrusts or accuses another it can be attributed to a deep seeded jealousy. On the surface, one may say, 'But, Lord jealousy and envy are sins.' To which I would reply, 'Yes, My children they are.' I see their sin, also but I also see the wound that has not fully healed. When a wound is not fully healed it is still painful to touch. It is tender. If one hits the wound or bumps it even by accident, it causes the wounded person to flinch or to cry out in pain. It is no different when an emotional wound that hasn't fully healed is struck. It may occur without others realizing, but nevertheless the wounded person will cry out in pain, or in fear to let others know you are getting too close to this pain and to please stop so it doesn't become even more painful. My child, these behaviors do not appear to be as a result of pain. They appear to be pride, anger, fear, jealousy and a whole host of other sins. To be clear, behavior may be sinful but what I am inviting you to see is the reason beneath the sin. Reflect on this in yourselves, My children. You will be able to identify underlying causes for your sins. Only then, can you bring these wounds to Me for healing. When wounds, especially emotional wounds (wounds of the heart) are exposed to the light and brought to the Great Physician for healing, can there be complete healing. I want My children to be completely healed of all emotional wounds, all trauma, all wounds that strike at the hearts of My beautiful children to be healed. In this way, there will be no obstacles between us. In this way, you will see your souls as I see them. You will then take every sin to the confessional where My holy priest sons will absolve your sins due to their priestly, sacramental ministry. When I absolve your sins through the priest, your healing will be much quicker and a full recovery will be made. This may need to occur over time for different wounds, My children. I am patient. I do not overwhelm you and I know how much each person, each soul can handle. Be encouraged, My children. We will cover more of this in the coming weeks, but know that I love you and I Will you to be healed so you can love more freely. In this way, you will also be better equipped to overcome patterns of sin in your lives. I will give you graces for this, of course but by walking with Me on this path, this journey of healing, you will be more open to receive the graces I send to you on a continual basis. You will see a growth in holiness. You will also notice you are more empathetic when others show signs of being wounded. You will begin to understand the fullness of My love for you. You know it now intellectually. You will really know it in your hearts when we undertake this 'course' in healing and becoming more holy. To be more holy is to become who you were meant to be all along, from the moment of conception. My children, God the Father has a purpose and a plan for your lives. He knew and knows each and every soul before you were created. He knew all that would occur and He has already equipped you with the talents, gifts and every trait needed to fulfill your mission in this life. The Father never sets His children up for failure, but only for success. Unfortunately, because of His gift of free will, others have abused this gift and used their free will to harm others. This is not His Will, but the will of man rebelling against God's perfect Will that is always love, mercy, justice and peace. Consequently, you have all suffered from the consequences of others' sins. Rather than recognizing this, you have developed coping mechanisms to protect these wounds and to protect yourself from additional wounds. Sometimes you push others away for fear they will wound you, also. At other times, you act prideful or as if you know better than everyone around you. This is not true, My children. Search your hearts and you will discover through prayer, reflection and reading Scripture why these behaviors are surfacing, what is at the root of this and why these coping mechanisms are not beneficial to your growth in holiness. I understand, My beloved children all about this. I know everything about you and I want you to come to know yourselves in the light of truth. I am truth, My children. Bring each wound to Me and I will pour My balm of love and mercy into your wounds. I will bind each one. I am gentle and patient. I will heal you. You will then walk with Me in these painful experiences and I will reveal to you where I was when each event occurred. It will be an experience of My love, My children. You will understand in your hearts that I have always been with you. Do not be afraid of this healing process. I am with you. Trust in Me, My children. If you begin to realize there are people you have not forgiven, you will need to do so. This may seem impossible, but it is possible with and through Me. Ask for My help and direction, My children. Ask My Mother to pray for you in this process of healing. Sit before Me in the tabernacle and be with Me. I am here for you. When you begin to be restored, you will have a sense of freedom, My children. When your sadness is lessened there will be more room for joy and inner peace. I need you to be renewed and restored to realize you have an honored place in the family of God. Then, you will be much more effective in your ability to help others and to respond to others in love. Be not afraid, My children. Trust in Me."

"My children, you will also be in a better position to help your Jesus after the Illumination of Conscience. Many will be in a state of shock and will be grieving because they will realize the full extent of their sins, the consequences to others and the way their sins are in the light of truth. Their consciences will no longer be numb to the truth, but fully aware. Their underlying wounds will be understood but they may not know what to do, other than flee to Confession. I will guide them and I invite you to participate with Me in this rescue mission. As you encounter those in need, in emotional need, you will be given the grace to know what to do for them. Love them. Be merciful. Be humble. Guide them ever so gently. Be a source of healing to them. Take them to the priest for Confession and other sacramental needs. Above all, show mercy and love."

Thank You, Lord. We are all 'walking wounded', Lord some have worse wounds than others, more 'life-threatening', but regardless each person's wounds are still painful. Thank You for Your loving concern for us. What an amazing God You are! I love You, my Savior!

"I love you, My daughter. Help others to heal, My children. Begin to look at them differently, with My eyes. Do not judge, but pray for the gift of discernment. Pray for your brothers and sisters. Be gentle,

My children. Souls can be very fragile. I love you. I bless you in the name of My Father, in My name and in the name of My Holy Spirit. Go in My peace.”

Amen, Lord, Amen!
